Today

Our inheritance from the past
Our contribution to the future

Today we continue the traditions of yesterday

Freshmen racing down the football field

Homecoming

Sunday night suppers and sack lunches

Christmas readings

Special studies

Sophomore slump

The sunrise service

Swimming in the fish pond

The Daisy Chain

Today we foresee tomorrow

New awareness and concern

All Scots Day and the Homecoming Banquet

Our inheritance from the past

Progress

Cars?

A new student center and science building

Today we show that we can be mature.

By our use of today's privileges and handling of today's problems

we shape Maryville's tomorrow

"All of this for potato salad and prunes?"

Today, and Every day, College Means

from breakfast until bedtime, you have very little time to yourself on campus. And college memories will consist, more than anything else, of memories of the people with whom you spent those four years. The pictures in this section on campus living will highlight those memories.

"For the third time, this meeting will please come to order!"

"No—but I saw the movie!"

Living Together...

Happy Wanderers

The pause that refreshes

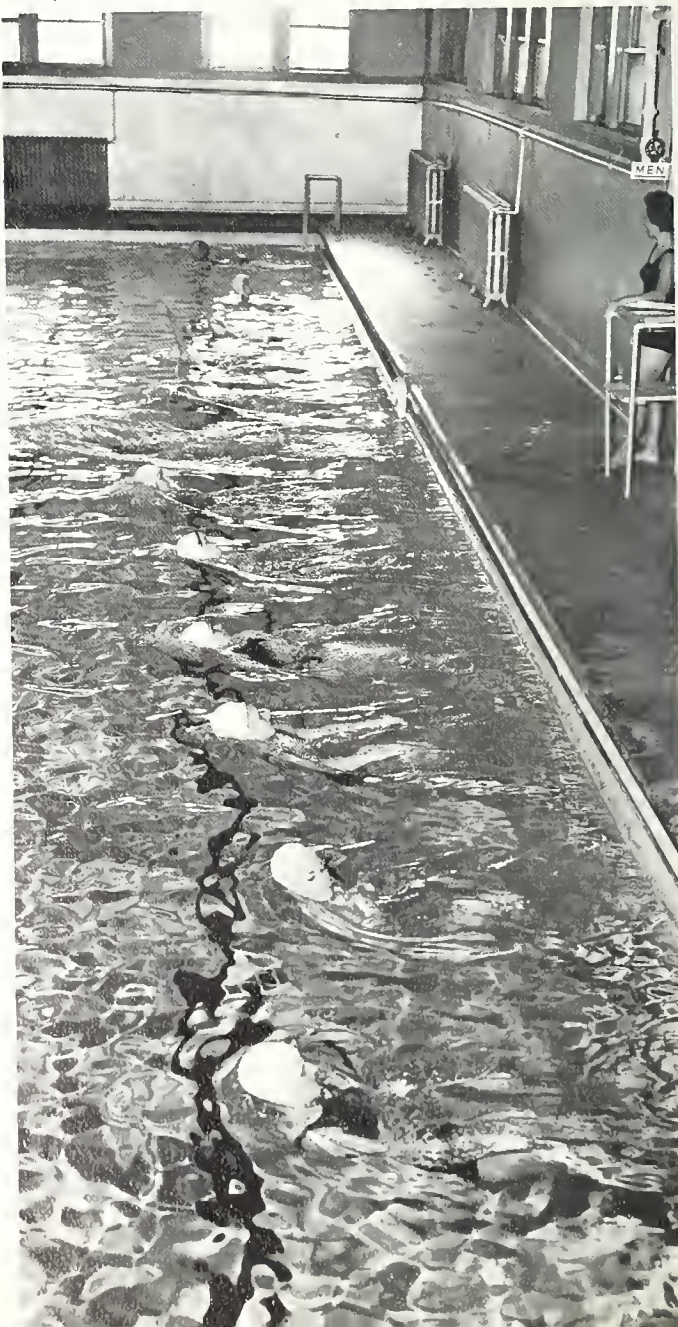

"Twilight Zone"

"I use Cheer for a whiter, cleaner wash."

Today, College

"OK, drown—but don't splash."

Is Learning...

Whether in the classroom, the swimming pool or the laundry room, Maryville will be remembered as the place where you learned. College is truly a "live and learn" experience—and the lessons learned at Maryville will live for a long time with her students.

Time-Out

"No—New York Times didn't review mine, either!"

Today, College Is a Bittersweet Assortment

An empty mailbox, a test not passed, a date not kept—all of these sorrows are within the experience of every college student. But when measured up against the joys of college, life's little tragedies seem truly small.

The cupboard was bare

"I'm going to see if my mother will give me late permission tonight."

of Joys and Sorrows...

"So who do I look like . . . Chubby Checker?"

"Spiked? . . . You serious?!!"

"Let me call you sweetheart."
"Hurry up—my potatoes are getting cold!"

"No . . . Who told you we burned freshmen?!"

Memories of the dances, the student center, even the college book store. To students at Maryville, these things seem unimportant—but in the future, they will acquire a new attractiveness as bad memories dull sharp edges. The pictures in this section will recall Maryville as it really was.

"I'm sorry—we don't sell Playboy."

JOSEPH J. COPELAND
B.A., B.D., D.D., LL.D.
President of Maryville College

The President

In the past two years Dr. Joseph J. Copeland has won the respect and admiration of every Maryville College student by his endeavors to mold this school around the students and their needs and desires. In his willingness to listen to student ideas and in his attempts to incorporate them into Maryville's program, he has achieved a closer tie between the members of the College family. This tie has been strengthened by his straightforward attitude and his willingness to speak openly and frankly with the students.

One will find Dr. Copeland in his striped tie at a football game cheering the Scotties to victory, standing in the rain watching a soccer game, or eating Sunday dinner with us in the dining hall. We express our gratitude for his participation in our activities as well as a respect for his administrative capacities.

We, the students, extend a thank you to Dr. Copeland for his personal concern for the life of our school and his high goals for Maryville College.

The President, Mrs. Copeland, and son, Kirk, at their home, Morningside.

ARTHUR S. BUSHING, B.A., M.A.
Dean of Men

E. FRANCES MASSEY, B.A., M.S.
Dean of Women

FRANK D. McCLELLAND, B.A., M.S., LL.D.
Dean of the College

The Deans

Dean Bushing's friendliness, cheerful attitude and casual manner are enjoyed and appreciated by the student body. He is a respected administrator, capable teacher, and helpful advisor to all students, fulfilling his various duties with competence and success. We extend our gratitude to Dean Bushing for his personal concern, wit, and good humor.

Even under the pressure presented by students seeking counseling and guidance or adjustment in the social calendar, Dean Massey retains her sincerity, cordiality, and graciousness. We appreciate the closer relationship which she has achieved with the student body by her strivings to fulfill the students' desires and to understand their problems.

Representing Maryville at various educational events, planning the curriculum, and teaching are a few of the duties and responsibilities of Dean McClelland. In fulfilling these, he has made progress in recognizing the goal of a high academic standing for Maryville and has kept us aware of the true purpose of our college life by his stress on academic excellence. Our gratitude to Dean McClelland for these endeavors.

Student Council

A part of today has been preserved for the future as the Student Council this year started two new traditions—All Scots Day and the Homecoming Banquet. The new activities calendar showed us the day's happenings and another project, Coffee and Conversation, fostered closer communication between students and faculty. These were only a few of Council's accomplishments; its permanent committees worked in areas varying from "Pep" to "U.S.N.S.A.," and temporary committees were established to tackle problems of cars, new societies, the honor system, and human relations. Students on the Council have shown the involvement characteristic of the college generation of today.

YW-YMCA

In the autumn of 1961, the newly-elected YWCA and YMCA officers conferred with their outgoing counterparts and proposed and accepted a bold new plan of reorganization for these two groups. It was the feeling that, although both the YWCA and YMCA had individual national affiliation and separate affairs, they were, for all intents and purposes, operating as one unified organization. Both had far-reaching and easily overlooked programs of service to both our campus and the greater Maryville community which, it was decided, could be more efficiently and more effectively carried out if the two could be brought closer together.

The cabinet of officers remained much the same as before, with the new united group having co-presidents, vice-presidents, secretaries, and treasurers. The area of service was reviewed at great length and a plan of six commissions was evolved. These commissions, which include Human Relations, Programs, Campus Life, Community Service, Christian Vocations, and Fellowship, are co-chaired by a man and a woman student.

The combined Y's program of Christian service and witness is designed to increase each individual student's own beliefs and, therefore, to be of service both to the student and those benefitted by it. This program now includes many areas of service which penetrate the campus life so effectively they sometimes go unrecognized. The Maryville community, as well, is benefitted by the work of the new YW-YMCA.

Nu Gamma

One of the strong right arms of the newly organized YW-YMCA is the hard-working group of Nu Gamma leaders. Taking their name from the two Greek letters which correspond to our "N" and "G," these girls center their year's activities around the new girls on campus. The Nu Gamma leaders, as well as the Key Men, may be called upon by the Y's for almost any service, but their particular responsibility is the new girls. Each Nu Gamma leader is assigned during the summer a number of freshman girls to whom she writes, and she welcomes them upon their arrival. During the year the Nu Gamma leaders make favors for their girls and make themselves available for any help the new girls might need.

Under the able leadership of YMCA Vice-President Ron Elly, the Ten Key Men this year played a key role in the work of the Y. Their first task, undertaken in mid-summer last year, was the planning and coordination of the Big Brother-Little Brother program. After returning to the campus in September, they assisted in every phase of the Y Welcome, the Watermelon Pow-Wow being probably their most memorable contribution.

After settling down to the routine of campus life again, the Key Men continued to make their presence felt as they promoted the Artist Series, helped push the Y Membership Drive, publicized Homecoming and built the sets for Barnwarming. They have been active in all YMCA committees, and are responsible for planning the annual Y Retreat.

Women's Student Government

As an independent administrative council, the Women's Student Government Association provides a medium for self-government among the women resident students. The purpose of WSGA is to maintain the standards of the Honor Code, and to encourage student participation in the administration of dormitory life. The Coordinating Council, composed of ten elected members, acknowledges the need for cooperation among the women and the administration in order to foster successful group living. Principles of self-government are carried out with the recognition that responsibility is the key to the Honor System.

Men's Student Government

The Men's Student Cooperative is a department of student government which acts as an organization for unity and regulation among all the men who reside on campus and the administration. The Cooperative Council, consisting of an elected representation of fifteen men, assumes authority to govern in matters of interest to the dormitory students in Carnegie and McLain Memorial Halls. The M.S.C. seeks to maintain a close contact with those whom they represent, and to serve as a responsible voice to make dormitory life more conducive to the welfare of each of its members.

The 1963 CHILHOWEAN had its beginning one year ago when Pat Anderson and Sally Blair were elected Editor and Business Manager, respectively, by the Class of 1964. During this year the staff worked to capture the spirit of Maryville College today. Pictured in this book are your activities, your royalty, your classes, your faculty, your year. The staff has worried about deadlines, pictures that did not turn out, matching names with faces, and juggling layouts. Now, however, the evidence of the struggle is in your hands. These are your memories of Today.

To effect communication . . . to report information . . .
 to stimulate thought . . . to promote student expression.
 Enthusiasm, efficiency, and dependability make possible the biweekly publication of The Highland Echo as reporters, editors, and business manager meet a never-ending circle of deadlines and publication dates. These students receive no academic credit, but they feel satisfaction in being an integral part of this effective medium of campus expression. A newspaper by students and for students, the Echo emphasizes the communication of campus news and opinion. Accuracy and responsibility form the key to its independence.

All students who are planning to teach are eligible for membership in the Student National Education Association. The Jasper Converse Barnes Chapter was organized on this campus in 1949, and has been active in sponsoring speakers and fellow teachers who discuss trends and methods used in education. This year S.N.E.A. invited a former Maryville student, Rosemary Lee, to speak at one of their monthly meetings. These future elementary or secondary school teachers also participate in district and state conferences of the National Education Association.

Tau Kappa Chi

Tau Kappa Chi, the Greek letters of which signify that "the beautiful is difficult," also stands for an organization whose purpose is to promote student and community interest in the music department, particularly in student participation. Tau Kappa Chi's membership is restrictive, open only to those who are music majors or are studying applied music, who have a 3.0 grade average for two consecutive semesters, and have the unanimous recommendation of the music faculty.

B. G. Club

Why do they all wear those little green dice around their necks? And what does B.G. stand for, anyway? And why do they have a silly initiation when the girls must wear green knee socks, mascara freckles, and huge dice on their backs? And just what do they do? Most of us will never know. The only ones who do know belong to the B.G. Club. Just these eight with the dangling dice know all the answers and they're not telling anyone.

Debate Team and Pi Kappa Delta

This year's debate activities started and ended with festivities. An autumn hike and picnic in the mountains, with the coach, Dr. Arda S. Walker, presiding at the charcoal grill, helped to integrate the new team members. The traditional banquet in the spring saw the members of the team who became qualified for the national forensic honor fraternity, Pi Kappa Delta, entertain with amusing after-dinner speeches.

Between these periods of gaiety much study was done on the national topic, which concerned an economic community of non-communist nations. Prepared to fight and armed with precious debate boxes, the debaters traveled to such tournaments as those in Atlanta, South Carolina, Memphis (State Tournament), and Illinois, where the National ΠΚΔ Tournament was held.

By the end of the season the debaters felt that it had been a long, hard trek, but they gained much from it and are now ready to start work on next year's topic.

The Circle K Club is a service organization affiliated with the Kiwanis Clubs of Maryville and Alcoa. Membership is highly selective and is restricted to those men who recognize a definite service obligation to the campus and surrounding community, and who are able to maintain a stipulated academic average. Since its organization in November, 1961, Circle K has maintained an active program of campus and community service averaging approximately one hundred man-hours of service per semester. Projects completed by the club include the construction of a bicycle shelter for use of men residents, the establishment and furnishing of a group-study room in Carnegie Hall, the collection of used textbooks for use in Asian universities, and various Children's Home workdays. Standing projects include providing ushers for the Vesper services and securing lodging for prospective students visiting the campus.

Theta Epsilon began the 1962-63 school year by working in the traditional brother-sister spirit with Alpha Sigma on the annual Rush Show. This year's theme, "Show Boat," was carried out in a variety show. With their new pledges, Theta went to work on a float for Homecoming which carried out the Show Boat theme. Along with the weekly meetings and the various inter-society sports, Theta worked with Sig to present a skit at one of the football pep rallies and to use the freshman talent in a Pledge Show. "Nuit d'Amour"—the Christmas formal—was sponsored by Theta and Sig, and the college dining hall was turned into a part of Paris. Included in Theta's plans for second semester were Skit Nite and a retreat in the mountains.

Alpha Sigma began the year by turning the Sig House into a Show Boat for Rush Week, and holding there a party to welcome the freshmen to Maryville. Even with all this they found time to work with Theta Epsilon—their sister society—to present as their Rush Show, "Down Yonder." With their new pledges, Sig continued working with Theta on such things as a float for the Homecoming parade and a skit for a pep rally. The Sigs spent much time in the Sig House—working to keep it in good condition and, more frequently, enjoying a football game together. As first semester drew to a close, their pledges were busy planning and rehearsing with the Theta pledges for the annual pledge show. Along with their weekly meetings, they were busy second semester preparing for Skit Nite and competing with Phi in intersociety sports.

Chi Beta opened the year with a Hawaiian luau, which was the high point of their Rush Week. At their weekly meetings they had various kinds of programs, including Dr. Hunter and Dr. Swenson speaking to the group on topics of interest. Another outstanding program was the fashion show given by the pledges for the upper-class members. Along with these formal meetings, Chi Betas got together informally on Thursday nights in the Kappa Phi house to watch television and relax. Among their other activities were a spaghetti supper held in the Y-Rooms and a skating party, also sponsored by Kappa Phi, at the Ice Chalet in Knoxville.

Kappa Phi has had a very busy semester, beginning, of course, with Rush Week. Much work went into their Homecoming float but they managed to take time out to help the Chi Betas with some of the construction on their float. The Phi's remodeled their house this year, both inside and outside. They also repaired the home of a family of nine who live in a depressed section of Maryville and collected clothing for them. Other activities included sports, Skit Nite, a skating party, and the Spring Formal, sponsored jointly with Chi Beta.

College Choir

"From the diaphragm . . ."
Vigorous rehearsal results in high quality.

When Sunday grows dusky and our week has been long and discouraging, we find serenity and inspiration in the music of our College Choir under the direction of Dr. Harry H. Harter. The members work hard in rehearsal—every perfect note tells us that—but we also know they enjoy their work. We watched them feel silly and love every moment of it during their fall initiation. Sometimes on Friday afternoons we hear a snatch of song, and it's so fine that we have to stop a moment.

Besides the weekly vesper music, the choir leads us on sleepy Chapel mornings and colors the background of February Meetings. At Christmas Vespers the choir, with narration and choreography, interpreted "The Coming of Christ," by Gustav Holst.

We are not selfish; we share our choir for two weeks each spring. This year they toured Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Virginia. The Easter Sunrise Service was made more inspiring by the choir's contribution to it. The Spring Concert centered around Brahms' masterful "Requiem" done by a masterful—and beloved—group.

Men's Glee Club

Under the leadership of Mr. Dan H. Kinsinger and the presidency of Bob Hutchinson, Men's Glee Club, along with the Women's Choir, acquired a new look and a new feeling of unity. The first activity for both of these groups was the initiation of new members, when other students were exposed for the first time to the choir insignia, the lyre. The formal initiation, complete with lighted candles, was an impressive ceremony to be long remembered.

The new members of the choir and glee club were given a chance to display their talents at the party in the woods last fall.

With the Women's Choir, this group participated in the Fall Serenade, the Spring Musical, and various Vesper services. They joined with the College Choir and members of the college and the community in the performance of the Messiah.

Women's Choir

The Women's Choir and the Men's Glee Club are the only organizations on campus which give opportunities for supervised work in both religious and secular music. Examples of these types are noted in the Fall Serenade of Gershwin and Porter numbers, participation in "The Messiah" and Christmas Vespers, the musical "Bye, Bye, Birdie," and various Vesper services.

Under the president, Judy Smith, the women of the choir have adopted a new uniform, a black skirt and an attractive white blouse on which is the choir symbol, the lyre.

As women are by tradition sociable creatures, they worked hard in planning the parties and picnics of the combined Choir and Glee Club. And with "Mr. K" at the helm, both musically and socially, it is a foregone conclusion that there was much pleasure in both work and play.

Highly unusual themes, developed by conductor John Roberts and interpreted by the bonny Maryville Highlanders, highlighted our football games this year. Once the band stepped high to Rhythm and Blues, another time the T. V. theme songs—and even Yogi Bear showed up. And once, as a surprise honor, a special arrangement of a John Roberts' composition rang through the stands.

A circus (in kilts) came to Honaker Field at Homecoming this year, featuring the Majorettes twirling flaming batons. Their new adaptable majorette outfits were designed by Miss Sandra Presley, head majorette.

We saw the bright plaid and sparkling spats in the Homecoming Parade and remember the Twirlers whipping an aching student body through the traditional snake dance.

When the cold winds began to blow and the football team deserted the field, the Highlanders changed to somber black costumes and became a concert band whose repertoire included both popular and classical music.

Majorettes

This year our majorettes led the Highlanders Band in their new four-in-one costumes which are red, green, and white. They were designed by Head Majorette Sandy Presley. As in past years, they performed in the half-time shows at the home games as well as at the Georgetown and Carson-Newman games. Homecoming was a big event for the girls: in the afternoon they marched in the parade, and in the half-time show that night they did a routine with fire batons. The majorettes also performed at hockey games, and helped to build spirit and enthusiasm at pep rallies.

Orchestra

The Maryville College-Community Orchestra, under the baton of Mr. John Roberts, has continued to strive toward the development of appreciation and understanding through the study and performance of the best in music.

The study must have been diligent, for the performance was excellent, as the full-house audiences at both fall and spring concerts know. A concert for children in October was broadcast over radio station WGAP to county schools. The orchestra also contributed to the glory of the "Messiah" in December, the gaiety of "Bye, Bye, Birdie" in March, and the fire of "The Tempest" at Commencement.

This year, under its first constitution, the orchestra introduced two new musical groups: the String Quartet and the String Ensemble, which performed at Christmas Vespers.

"Spirit" is the key word of today's playhouse. Under the leadership of Mr. Tom Jones, students interested in the theatre worked with dedication and enthusiasm to perfect the three major productions, which were this year "Look Homeward, Angel," Ketti Frangs' adaptation of the Thomas Wolfe book, "Tiger at the Gates" by Jean Girandoux, and Shakespeare's "The Tempest." Two experimental plays were also put on during the season. In the spring, Playhouse collaborated with the glee club in producing the rollicking musical, "Bye, Bye, Birdie."

Playhouse members who attained the rank of Master Player became members of Theta Alpha Phi, the oldest national honorary dramatic society in the country.

Students who worked with the theatre have many memories of coffee in the Green Room, late permissions, and the sense of community spirit.

Concert Band

Concert band doesn't mean just moving inside and playing the same old marching songs. No indeed, it means that there is much more emphasis on quality of tone and ability to play difficult passages than on volume. When the band moves inside, it performs much more serious, challenging works. For example, this year's winter concert included "The Lincoln Portrait," by Aaron Copeland, with a special narration by Mr. Thomas Jones. In addition to presenting concerts in the winter and spring, the concert band also appeared on WATE-TV this winter and at the Dogwood Arts Festival in the spring. The high point for many was the pleasant "Pops" Concert presented at the end of the year on the lawn of the Fine Arts Center Amphitheater.

The Sophomore Class' Winning Float: "The Scots Always Come Through!"

Alumni and friends returning to the campus on All Scots Day were greeted by Scots dressed in plaids and filled with the spirit of Homecoming. The Pep Rally and Bonfire following the First Annual Homecoming Banquet gave an indication of the pep and enthusiasm which was to lead the team to victory the next evening.

Dormitory open houses were held Saturday after a most successful parade which included the Sophomore Class' winning float, "Scots Always Come Through."

The coronation of Queen Lois Ann Jones, attended by Carol Cox and Janet Lysterly, was the highlight of the half-time ceremonies of the Homecoming Game. The defeat of Hanover made the Victory Dance a crowning climax to an already-perfect Homecoming week end—a week end to remember TODAY and always.

Barnwarming

"Tempest in a Teepee" delighted the Barnwarming King and Queen and their court Thanksgiving night as the 1962 Barnwarming was moved out of the barn into the theatre. Soft and lyrical, bright and witty music by Sharon Jones, Merelee Knott, and Dave Clinkman added sparkle to the already brilliant script written by Producer-Director Paul Elliott. The intricate plot blending romance and comedy was unfolded by an enthusiastic cast, with the aid of hard-working crews, making a production that received much praise from the holiday audience.

Messiah

The thirtieth annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" was held in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel on December 9, 1962. The 270-voice choir directed by Dr. Harry H. Harter was accompanied by the College-Community Orchestra under the direction of Mr. John Roberts. The talents of the College Choir, the Women's Choir, the Men's Glee Club, interested students, faculty and townspeople, Sallie Warth Schoen, harpsichordist, Linda Wagner Perry, pianist, James Bloy, organist, and the thirteen soloists, were combined to make the 1962 performance of the "Messiah" the highlight of the holiday season and an important part of today.

Today is Christmas

The College Choir and the Theatre Arts Department combined efforts to open the Advent Season on Sunday evening, December 2, with an inspiring presentation of John Masefield's mystery play, "The Coming of Christ." Continuing the Christmas tradition on December 9, students gathered in the dining hall for Christmas Readings, following Handel's "Messiah." Hearing favorite Christmas stories and singing the traditional carols heightened the holiday mood. Christmas Vespers, a beautiful program of music presented by the College Choir, the Women's Choir, the Men's Glee Club, the Brass Choir, and the String Ensemble, brought to a climax the Christmas season on campus. Through these special seasonal services and activities, the spirit of Christmas pervaded the Maryville campus and filled the college family with good cheer.

February Meetings

Dr. Thomas F. Hudson of Riverside, California, came through stormy weather, burning plane engines, and many rearranged schedules to be the leader of the 87th annual Maryville College February Meetings. J. T. Jones, Sunday School Missionary from Charlotte, North Carolina, served as song leader. Working under a new arrangement this year, the February Meetings team included four counselors: A. Johannes Van den Blink, Miss Margaret Brunner, William H. Hunter, and Ewell J. Reagin, all of Knoxville area.

Following two separate themes for morning and evening services, Dr. Hudson led the student body in some new and different ways of thinking. Our song leader and his beautiful Negro spirituals added much to the meaning of the service. Working particularly in the dormitories with devotions, informal discussions, and personal interviews, the counselors led student discussion on many questions and gave the students more opportunity for discussing Dr. Hudson's message.

The 1963 February Meetings, its leaders, and its many facets of program, served to revitalize the spiritual life of the college family.

Artist Series: 1962-1963

The Gregg Smith Singers, internationally known chorale ensemble, opened the 1962-63 Artist Series on October 26, 1962. They presented a varied concert of choral literature, featuring contemporary music. The second semester brought, on January 31, 1963, the National Players, Inc. with their presentation of William Shakespeare's "Othello." The Players, at Maryville for the third time, impressed the audience with their excellent portrayal of Shakespeare's well-known characters. The third concert of the Series, March 8, featured Arthur Gold and Robert Fizdale, Duo-Pianists. Their keyboard intricacies amazed the audience and held them spellbound throughout the performance. A special gift concert, closing the Series, was presented on April 23. Concert organist William Whitehead and the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra gave a delightful performance which was, indeed, a fitting climax to the Series.

Playhouse Activities

The opening production of the Maryville College Theatre Arts Department for the 1962-63 season was Ketti Fring's adaptation of Thomas Wolfe's novel, "Look Homeward, Angel." The audiences, thrilled by the performances of this play, looked forward to a successful season in the Playhouse. And they were not disappointed. The second success came with Jean Giraudoux' "Tiger at the Gates." The first Tennessee performance of "Bye Bye Birdie" captivated its audiences when it was presented on the Maryville campus. This spring musical was a result of the combined efforts of the college Playhouse and the glee clubs. "The Tempest," by William Shakespeare, was the commencement play.

In his first year on the Maryville College faculty, Mr. Thomas E. Jones has brought new life and enthusiasm to the theatre.

Art Activities

Student Art Exhibit—first semester.

The Maryville College Art Department, under the direction of Mr. Swenson, has presented several outstanding gallery shows this year. A particularly fascinating exhibit from Southern California centered around modern architecture and design. The student art shows at the close of each semester, displaying a variety of techniques and media, represented the talents and earnest endeavor of each student. The newly organized Fine Arts Forum has received much support from the Art Department, including a presentation of Whistler's etchings. In these and many other ways, this department has added to the Maryville College students' understanding of the aesthetic.

ATHLETICS

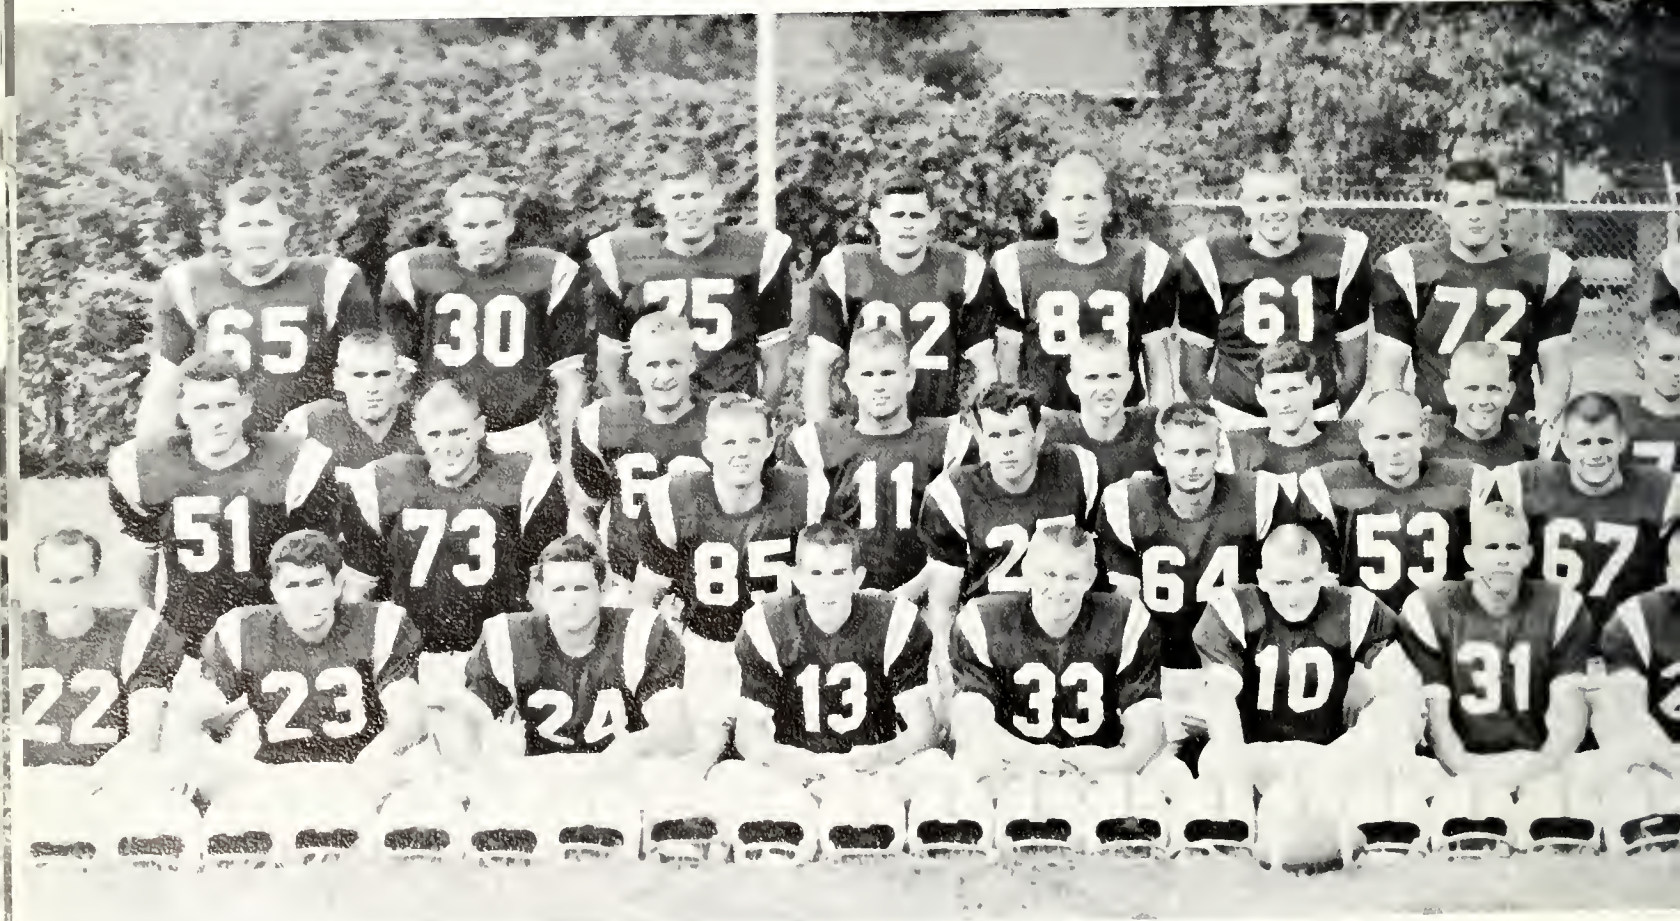

Coaches Tomlinson, Baird, and Kardatzke

With a successful year behind them and the majority of that spirited crew again donning football togs, the outlook for our Scots in 1962 was bright. The season got off to a promising start with a 21-0 pasting of Mars Hill College as the Highlanders lived up to their pre-season press notices. The second game punctuated the winning spirit with a 33-14 triumph over the Colonels of Centre College. But then the sky fell in. Despite Maryville's strongest defensive showing of the year in a miserable rain, Georgetown College slogged to a 9-0 shutout. The next week was just as heart-breaking as a victory over formidable Emory and Henry College slipped by 14-7, in an emotion-packed melee. Four thousand fans who crowded Honaker Field to see the annual Homecoming game watched hapless Hanover College fall 27-6, as the Scots surged back into the win column.

Chances for a successful season fell further when cross-state foe Southwestern pushed its way to a 7-0 win. But then the never-say-die Scots turned around and upset a surprised Millsaps team, 14-3. This insured at least a .500 season and set the scene for the big one—Carson-Newman. A strong contingent of rooters braved the unfavorable weather, only to see Maryville fall, 17-7, in a game in which they were simply overpowered.

The 1962 season was the one that almost pushed the Scots into the top small-college ratings. Had it not been for so many injuries, the Scots could have surpassed their respectable 4-4 1962 record. Not content with what "could have been," Coach Baird and company are already plotting next year's campaign.

A football squad is only as good as its substitutes. Space does not permit more than a mere mention of those valuable players who, time after time, came off the bench for that key play. As the season progressed and more and more front-line players were sidelined with injuries, these boys moved up to fill their places. The "big boys" who held down the line were Bill Napier, Gary Dutton, Dan Besch, "Beetle" Bailey, and Fred Willocks. Alternating in and out of the backfield were Ron Lingenfelter, Wilbur Ramsey, and Jim Renfro.

Basketball

When anyone speaks of the 1961-62 basketball season, they usually talk in hushed tones. Perhaps the best thing to say is that we were able to profit this year by last year's mistakes. Returning lettermen Bert Randall and Mike Moyers helped provide the framework for Coach Baird's 1962-63 edition. Bill Schellenger and Charlie Finley were in the middle of things until they transferred for the second semester. A number of exciting newcomers played for the Scots this year, the notable two being Mike Gregory, who provided badly needed height under the basket, and Don Peterson, a little fireball. Giving Coach Baird that needed depth were Kip Martin, "Bo" Henderson, who played last year, Denny McGowan, and Larry Huskey.

The Scots didn't create any great stir in the basketball world, but they did display more range, more speed, and much more teamwork this year than last.

Wrestling

Adam Deveney braces himself against his University of Georgia opponent.

Coach John Davis' beloved "rasslers," who have brought renown to Maryville College in past years, are determined to continue their winning ways. Back again was team captain Jim Baxter, three-time SEC champion in the 123-weight class, and Pete Stafford, who trimmed down for the 197 class. Clint Abbott, who performed well last year, was lost this season with a broken wrist. Leading the newcomers this year were Adam Deveney, Ron Mancini, and Will Mitchell.

Maryville has always been pitted against schools many times larger but has been able to win consistently against Southeastern Conference teams. Although Coach Davis was working with a large number of new boys, the team performed at a high peak.

Appearances can be deceiving: Coach Davis' calm front hides a deep determination to win.

Baseball

Baseball was one of the sports which didn't quite get off the ground last year. The spring of 1963 saw some improvement in the dismal 4-10 mark set last year. A number of the 1962 squad returned to don the Scot uniforms for another season. Dave West, one of the bright players from the previous season, was once again on the mound. Also returning after a year's absence was "Red" Prudhon, an outstanding shortstop, who gave the team the needed shot in the arm. A number of freshmen were ready to move in to fill the vacant positions on the diamond.

The 1963 Baseball Scots certainly were well prepared to provide the fans with more winning baseball.

Track

Maryville's track team never raised much of a stir in the headlines until the spring of 1962, when two MC trackmen made outstanding showings in the T.I.A.C. meet. Bill Owenby, who has since graduated, set a new state record in the javelin, and former Marine Joe Malloy sailed to a new 12', 10" mark in the pole vault. Malloy was back again this season and helped to form the nucleus of an exciting track team.

As in the past, MC's track team won their share, and seemed to lose their share. However, this year, a good freshman turnout gave Coach Tomlinson a lot more talent to work with.

Look at those boys go! Sprinting tracksters are J. Malloy, R. Thompson, and R. McClanahan.

Tennis

Traditions are wonderful things at Maryville College for they form a vital part of campus life. One of the lesser known traditions on the Hill belongs exclusively to the tennis team. Ever since last year's squad posted a final 10-7 season record, thus making tennis the most successful spring sport at Maryville, the team members have regarded this honor as a matter of pride and have taken it upon themselves to win it back annually. This year's Net Squad has done a most creditable job of it.

The season's opener with LMU saw lettermen Todd Owers, Dave Marston, and Bob Paul returning for another year to form the nucleus of Coach Lauren Kardatzke's '63 tennis team. Newcomers Dale Fischbach and Rich Marshall, a couple of hard-hitting freshmen, proved especially welcome additions to the team, as did tall, gangling Lynn Howard, who brought with him over six feet of local talent to the scene. Season's highlights were many and varied, although the frosting on the cake came as the boys participated in the Tennessee Inter-Scholastic Athletic Conference Tournament, held early in May.

Men's Intramurals

Football, basketball, softball, volleyball, wrestling, ping pong, or tennis—there is some sport for everyone in the men's intramural program. This year the program was bigger than ever. Under the supervision of Coach Davis and the intramural managers, athletes of every shape, size and degree of accomplishment mixed in vigorous competition and healthy sportsmanship. Kappa Phi once again dominated the intramural scene by trouncing Alpha Sigma 46-19 in the "Stinkin' Shoe" football game—the third consecutive victory. Kappa Phi also extended its string of flag football championships to two in a row by downing the Alpha Sigma Sledgehammers in a play-off contest, 22-0. But win or lose, the intramural games consistently testified to the fierce competition and to the pride of athletic achievement which pervaded all the men who participated in the program. To a lucky few, the year was crowned with the receipt of an intramural letter, but for everyone there was the reward of an enriching experience in another dimension of college life.

With every girl enrolled at Maryville as a member, the Women's Athletic Association is one of the most active groups on campus. The association, under Miss Leslie's direction, is concerned with providing recreation for all women students. Teams are sponsored by the two women's societies, but society membership is not necessary in W.A.A. There are games twice each week under the leadership of an "M" Club member. Many sports are available, from swimming to powder-puff football, so every girl can choose a game to fit her taste.

Women's Intramurals

The Women's Athletic Association (WAA) opened its season last September with a party sponsored by Women's "M" Club. The purpose was to introduce the freshmen to the women's intramural sports program. The season opened with seventy-nine enthusiastic women participating in volley ball, with Theta Epsilon the victorious society. The next sport on the calendar was soccer, with Chi Beta Society being the winner. Ping Pong and fencing were next, with Chi Beta taking first place in both. WAA ended the first semester with a Christmas party given by Women's "M" Club.

Basketball, the highlight of the new semester, was closely followed in popularity by softball. In the early spring the two societies participated in a swimming meet; the last event of the season was a track meet.

This year Women's "M" Club is made up of ten hard-working girls. It is the job of these girls to promote an interest in women's sports and good sportsmanship. They become members of "M" Club by the accumulation of 400 points earned through intramurals. With the guidance of Miss Leslie, the girls enjoy two retreats each year. The program includes bimonthly meetings, dinners and parties.

Soccer

Soccer provided many of the thrills in this year's fall sports program as the team, under the auspices of Mr. Ainsworth and player-coach Kirk Copeland, ended its season with a creditable 3-3 season record.

Opening the year with three contests away from home, the Scots set the keynote by winning the opener 1-0 at the expense of Appalachian State Teachers College. They then journeyed to Asheville, North Carolina, where they suffered a 5-1 setback at the hands of experienced Warren Wilson College. Undaunted, the Highlanders then took on Berea College in Kentucky, only to feel the sting of defeat once again, 5-1.

Returning home to the more familiar field and a home crowd which never knew when to stop cheering, Maryville began to roll. Berea returned only to find themselves up against a different team as the Highlanders had their sweet revenge 1-0. Oglethorpe University of Atlanta, Georgia, was the next victim—they went down painlessly 6-0. The final contest of the year was played in a torrential downpour against Warren Wilson in what proved to be a whale of a return match. The outcome was not decided until late in the third quarter when the Owls scored a fluke goal to pull out the victory, 3-2.

Although the team loses the services of seniors Bill Ward, Bill Weissenburger, John Vordonis and co-captain Scott Bucher, there is much encouragement for the future. Outstanding center halfback Red Prudhon will return to lead an offensive line which will not lose a man through graduation. Prospects for next year are indeed bright, as soccer strives forward to be recognized as a varsity sport on the Maryville campus.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders, under their captain, Kathy Burgess, turned in a superb job this year. Whether we were winning or losing was unimportant. The main thing was that the enthusiasm of these eight spread through the crowd and to the team. Three cheers to the cheerleaders.

The group gave a spring concert which was designed to give the audience a better understanding of progressive jazz. The band also played for school dances and did some additional work off campus.

The Senior Class Officers

Initiative, fine leadership, class spirit and enthusiasm par excellence show how the class of 1963 has prepared for their many tomorrows.

The senior men launched their year with three cakes inscribed "To Our Senior Chicks—From Your Faithful Admirers"—a tribute to the senior women thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Laurel Lake played host for the senior retreat in the mountains this year. The industrious seniors produced a simple, but very elegant, float for the Homecoming Queen, presented the first movie of the year, the well-attended "Quo Vadis," and cooperated with the other classes for the Halloween Party.

Independent Studies, more Independent Studies and Comprehensives kept the seniors' feet on the ground for many months. The "mystery ride" was the final activity before the long-awaited day of graduation.

The Junior Class Officers

The class of 1964 heralded their new status as upper-classmen with a picnic in the Woods. Eager to get a head start on the semester, they originated and coordinated the idea for the Halloween Party with the extra bonus of the shaving cream fight!

"Stardust" was the theme of the Juniors' successful football dance. On December 19 the sympathetic Juniors gave a party for tired Seniors in honor of the completion of Special Studies, highlighted by a snake dance by the Seniors through the library.

The biggest event of the year for the Junior class has been the planning for the sponsorship of a foreign student, preferably from a Communist-bloc country, at Maryville to study for a year.

Another example of the service given Maryville College by this class is the carrying out of the tradition of the Daisy Chain at Commencement, which is composed of fourteen girls of the Junior Class.

This year's CHILHOWEAN is a gift of the Junior Class to the students and faculty of Maryville College.

"I know my sack lunch is here somewhere . . ."

Armed with determination and tremendous spirit, the class of 1965 returned this year in great anticipation for their picnic in the woods and the football dance held after the Emory and Henry game. Concerned with the lack of understanding of the importance of cheerleaders, the class "brought down the house" at the rollicking pep-rally skit on the "History of Cheerleading." Their big prize of the year was capturing First Place in the Homecoming Float contest with "Scotties Always Come Through," the first class float in many years to win the top prize.

A service project for the Children's Home was executed in February and March brought the Sophomore movie. The Balloon Fight in April and the May picnic with the Freshmen Class ended the year for the busy and active Sophomores.

The Freshman Class Officers

Recovering from orientation, the Freshmen class made fine choices for class officers and student-council representatives, their first involvement in campus democracy. Quick to capture the enthusiasm of the Scotties, the freshmen created their fiery Homecoming float, "Pan the Panthers." Their spirit grew as they entertained at the all-school Halloween Party, organized a gala Christmas party, and steamed ahead to the Second Annual Water Balloon Fight. Freshmen activities ended with the Frosh-Soph picnic at Laurel Lake.
